

Reduced Consular Workload for Specific Visa Types

This document outlines the measures implemented to reduce consular workload regarding particular visa types. The streamlined procedures aim to enhance efficiency and improve applicant experience without compromising security or legal requirements.

Background

Certain visa types exhibit high rates of approval and low incidence of fraudulent applications. Consular officers have consistently raised concerns about repetitive administrative tasks for these cases.

Key Measures

- Simplified application review for low-risk visa categories
- Increased use of electronic document verification
- Introduction of waiver options for interviews in eligible cases
- Automated notifications and tracking for repeat applicants

Expected Outcomes

The reduced consular workload is expected to allow officers to focus on higher-risk cases, enhance processing speed, and provide better service to the public.
